DINNER TO PRECEDE THE FORMING OF A COMPANY

A dinner is to be served tonight at the Weber club, at which a large number of prominent business men and horticulturists of Weber county are expected to be present. In connection with the dinner, a meeting will be held for the purpose of discussing the proposition of immediately organizing a company to take over the interests of the Portland Food Products company and to incorporate with enough capital stock to establish an "Everfresh" fruit and vegetable drying and exporting plant in Ogden.

The formation of a company has virtually been decided upon and at the meeting tonight it is expected that enough stockholders will be secured to make the incorporation a certainty.

The dedication of the fountain will be a part of the annual Civic-day exercises of the local women's clubs. The fountain will be placed near the Twenty-fifth street and Washington avenue entrance to the City Hall park.

Mrs. Lynch stated yesterday that there will be at least three speakers on the program and that the club women have asked that Mayor A. G. Fell and Sanitary Inspector George Shorten be two of them.

IMPROVEMENTS AT RAILROAD TERMINAL

Excavating for an addition to the concrete platform at the north end of the passenger station at the Ogden Union Railroad terminal has been started and presages other improvements that are to be made in the near future to facilitate the handling of United States mails and passenger traffic at the terminal.

The large volume of parcel post mail that is now being transferred daily at the station has made the need of a larger platform imperative. The extension will cover the ground space between the north end of the passenger station and the depot branch of the Western Union telegraph office.

HARRY K. THAW BEFORE COURT

New York, March 10.—Harry K. Thaw came into court today with a gray sweater on. He had a stiff neck and a bad cold. It became known that his attorneys sought last night to have him taken to Bellevue hospital from the Tombs, but Justice Page decided Thaw could secure medical attention in the Tombs.

The first witness was Howard Barnum, gatekeeper at Matteawan. Barnum told of opening the gate to admit a milkman. Barnum's story of how Thaw dashed through the gate and jumped into an automobile outside which sped away in a cloud of dust, was identical with the one he told the police on the day Thaw fled.

On cross-examination, the witness said he knew Thaw well and had talked with him hundreds of times. Thaw had never exhibited a bad temper, he said.

After the witness had been asked by John B. Stanchfield, chief of Thaw's legal staff, whether he was "bewildered" when he saw Thaw dash away, and the witness had answered "yes," Mr. Stanchfield said:

"Well, it is your opinion then, that as to you and Thaw, you were the more crazy at the time."

An objection by the prosecution was held while the spectators roared with laughter.

James Hickey, driver of the milk wagon, which was entering the gate at Matteawan when Thaw escaped, gave testimony corroborating that of Barnum. Patrick Buckley, keeper of the storeroom at Matteawan where he worked principally at typewriting reports, also gave corroborative testimony.

On cross-examination the witness said he had talked with Thaw on many subjects and at many times. He had seen Thaw reading books on insanity, history, theology and considered him well informed on all subjects.

SEARCHING OUT THE ALHAMBRA ORGAN IS TAXPAYERS OF THE CITY NOT TO BE HEARD ON OPENING NIGHT

County clerk Harry Hales states that he has quite a task on his hands to learn the names of only taxpayers who will be eligible to vote at the city bond election, March 27. To get the names it is necessary to go over the entire list of taxpayers of the city and mark them in the blue registration books of Ogden. The letter "H" in red ink, placed opposite the name, in the blue book, will designate the taxpayers, and the judges of the election will be guided by the designation when people apply to vote.

Mr. Hales says that it will require the efforts of from three to five deputies to complete the list by election time.

Professor John J. McClellan, the Utah organist and orchestra director, was in Ogden today for the purpose of conferring with Albert Scowcroft and Charles Zeimer of the Alhambra Theatre company, and Director Joseph Ballantyne of the Ogden Tabernacle choir, with regard to the opening of the Alhambra theatre on March 17.

The officers of the Alhambra company had been previously notified by the master organ builder sent here by the Kimball Organ company to install the big pipe organ in the new theatre, that in opening up the boxed organ parts as the installation of the instrument proceeded, he had found that some of the most important parts were missing. These parts have been telegraphed for, but it was learned this morning that they could not reach Ogden in time to be installed by the night set for the opening.

Professor McClellan, who is the director of the American Theatre orchestra in Salt Lake City, and Prof. Ballantyne were immediately sent for and a conference was held at the Weber club during the noon hour. The main object of the meeting was to figure a way out of the difficulty which would not delay the opening of the theatre on the date planned and also that would not lessen the merit of the recital which was under way for the event.

To attain this object in a manner which it is thought will prove entirely satisfactory to the local music lovers and the parties directly concerned, it was decided to replace the expected organ accompaniments for the choral numbers by orchestral accompaniments, and the organ numbers, by violin and vocal solos and orchestral selections. This will be done by the engagement of Prof. Willard Welke, and Mr. Horace S. Ensign, Utah's most popular violinist and baritone, and the American Theatre orchestra, augmented by 25 pieces. This augmented orchestra, under the direction of Prof. McClellan, has given some splendid symphonic programs in Salt Lake City and, with the Ogden Tabernacle choir and the soloists should give the local public one of the finest concerts ever staged here.

HOW POLITICIAN PURCHASED VOTES

One of 88 Alleged Conspirators in Corrupting Terre Haute Elections Tells Story.

Indianapolis, Ind., March 10.—Claude Patton, one of the eighty-eight men who pleaded guilty to federal indictments charging them with conspiracy to corrupt the elections at Terre Haute last November, testifying today in the trial of the twenty-eight defendants in the election cases, said that while he never had directly bought a vote he had told a number of men that he hoped they would vote accordingly. When these men returned from the polls and assured him they had voted in accordance with his hopes he gave them money—some of them as much as $3 each—he said. Patton testified he was given $100 at the Democratic headquarters the night before election.

Patton formerly was assistant superintendent of cemeteries in Terre Haute. He testified that he worked in a room in the city hall on two days before the registration day last October, filling out application blanks from cards supplied him by Edward Holler, then chief of police and Harry Roberts of Terre Haute, one of the defendants, and on the last day he copied applications, told Roberts what he was doing.

Carried Out Mayor's Orders.
He also testified that on election day he called on Roberts and told him that "he wasn't able to put anything over in precinct C of the Fifth ward as the Republicans were too well organized there." Roberts, he said, told him to go to Holler and get something to put in their (the Republicans) pockets and have them arrested for carrying concealed weapons. He said Holler gave him three revolvers, one of which was exhibited in court, but the scheme failed as James Kennedy, the election sheriff refused to handle the weapons. He said Roberts told him the "bunch in your precinct are quitters."

Under cross-examination by A. O. Stanley, a former congressman, attorney for the defense, Patton said he did not know that the names he wrote on the application blanks were fictitious. Asked about the expenditure of the $100 the witness said he could not remember just how much he had paid for carriage hire or how much he had expended on men to whom he had suggested that they vote for certain candidates.

HELD BY THE POLICE FOR POCATELLO OFFICERS

At the request of the police authorities at Pocatello, Ralph Racker is being held in the city jail to await his being returned to Pocatello to face a charge of burglary.

According to Detective Robert Burk, Racker went to Pocatello on February 28 with Ralph Lahey and a man named Hansen. The trio visited the home of Hansen's sister and stole some clothing and about $18 in money.

Lahey was arrested in Pocatello with the clothing in his possession, but the other two men escaped. The Ogden officers were notified to look out for them and last Friday Racker was arrested by Detective Burk and Sheriff DeVine.

No trace of Hansen has yet been found and the local officers are of the opinion that he is well out of the danger zone by this time.
